THIS IS IT. Your last chance to purchase a brand new home at The Ridge at Bose Farms. “This is the area’s most popular community and the only one with a true heritage component to it,” says sales manager Nicole Castle, adding it’s also the recipient of three gold 2015 Georgie Awards. “The first two phases sold out extremely rapidly and already have many happy homeowners moved in, so there’s a genuine neighbourhood ambiance developing here.”

Now here’s the best part. “Right now we have a great selection of our newest and most popular floorplans — over three dozen in total — available in our fourth and final phase. But not for long — this really is your last chance to choose your colour scheme and decide whether you prefer a view of the historic, 12-acre Bose Forest Park, the community’s Historic Courtyard, or the spectacular sunsets over the ALR land to the west. And once these remaining homes are gone, they’re gone for good.”

Many buyers, she adds, say they appreciate being able to secure the exact home they want at today’s interest rates and still have plenty of time to sell their current home or save more money toward the down payment before they move in early in the new year.

Celebrate the Harvest and Taste The Ridge Lifestyle

If you love a good party — and let’s face it, who doesn’t? — be sure to mark Saturday, October 10th on your calendar because that’s the date of the Annual Harvest at The Ridge. Always a hit with homeowners and visitors alike, this opportunity to experience The Ridge lifestyle includes delicious country treats, games for the entire family, and toe-tapping, live music from Tidelanders.

This year, you’ll also have a chance to win an autographed copy of Old Landmark: New Life, the just released story of the historic Bose family farm’s transformation. Purchase a home during Harvest Festival weekend, and you could also win a catered house-warming party in the fully restored Bose family home.
